

Novels by Mercedes Clarasó

Natana

‘Conveys all sorts of extraordinary thoughts to the mind . . . a very touching love story [and] a wonderful novel.’ (A.N. Wilson)

Kintalloch

‘Succeeds in treating shocking subjects in a way that is never vulgar but always sensitive. A highly readable and invariably poignant story of human frailty, joy, and sorrow.’

(Books in Scotland)

The Hawthorn Hedge

‘Her story-telling power combines with a gift for characterization to make this a book I wanted to read from cover to cover without putting it down.’ (Scottish Book Collector)

Langwheepie

‘. . . celebrates her own pantheistic view of nature while rejecting a formal church with its attendant career structure.’ (The Herald)

‘A deftly told love story set in the Borders.’

(Berwickshire News)

Wandering Angus

‘The latest in the Kintalloch series follows Angus Lindsay after he left the Scottish estate, determined never to return. But what will they say when he returns? A heart-warming read.’

(Rob Scott in the Sunday Post)
